

SEN. CRANE
TAKES BRIDEMassachusetts' Junior Senator Married Today

TO JOSEPHINE BOARDMAN

A Quiet and Unostentatious Ceremony
Performed at Bride's Summer
Home in Manchester,
Mass.

Manchester, Mass., July 10.—United States Senator W. Murray Crane, Massachusetts' junior senator, was married at 12:30 today to Miss Josephine Boardman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Boardman of Washington. The wedding took place at Windyclyffe, the Boardman's summer cottage, a delightful spot on the summit of a high knoll, half a mile from the village center, and was quiet and without ostentation of any kind. Only members of the family were present, and altogether the guests numbered but a score. There was neither bridesmaid nor best man. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Roland Cotton Smith, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, Washington, assisted by the Rev. W. H. Dewar, rector of Christ church, Hyde Park, Mass.

The bride's gown was somewhat like that worn by her mother forty years ago, being of white satin princess style, with point lace and veil of tulle. She wore orange blossoms in her hair and carried a bouquet of white orchids. A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony. Senator and Mrs. Crane took an early afternoon train for the bride's home, where their destination being kept secret. Later they will go to the senator's summer home at Windsor. The wedding presents filled an entire room, and came from all parts of the country.

Senator Crane will be 34 on his next birthday. This is his second marriage. His wife died 22 years ago, the day that she gave birth to their first child, who is Winthrop Murray Crane, Jr. From the force of that blow the senator has never quite recovered. After passing out of the palatial home in Dalton which he had built for her when he laid away in the village cemetery, he never crossed its threshold for 22 years.

Withdrawing altogether from society he plunged into business, and made a success of it. He became successively lieutenant governor and governor of Massachusetts. Not until he met Miss Boardman, where he met Miss Boardman, has he ever shown any desire for society. It is said that their meeting was a case of love at first sight, but where or when the meeting took place neither the senator nor his bride will tell.

The men were taking out a coil of pipe twenty-five feet long, six feet high and weighing 1500 pounds, from a column of six other coils, to be placed in position when the coil that the men were lifting jostled against the other coils and the whole six tipped over and pinned the men to the floor. TRAMP WAS ANGRY,
When He Was Refused Money by James Flahaven.

Springfield, Mass., July 10.—Because James Flahaven, of 846 Pembroke street, Bridgeport, Conn., refused yesterday afternoon to give money to a tramp who claims to be John W. Jennings of Boston, and slapped the tramp's face on the third request, the tramp drew a large jackknife and slashed Flahaven's neck from ear to ear, with possibly fatal results.

Flahaven was accosted by the tramp under the subway leading from the Union passenger station to the street. Flahaven refused to give him any money. The tramp doggedly followed him and repeated the demand, which Flahaven ignored. When Flahaven entered the Cooley barroom the tramp followed him and made a third demand. Flahaven lost patience and struck the tramp, who after inflicting a deep wound six inches in length, fled in the direction of the station.

Employees of the barroom pursued him over and under cars and upon overtaking him, overpowered him and set upon him until the arrival of the police.

Represented Today at the Annual Session Being Held in

Burlington, July 10.—Nearly every one of the 240 health officers of Vermont are in attendance this week upon the eighth annual school for instruction which was opened auspiciously last evening with addresses by Governor Bell, President C. S. Caverly and Dr. T. R. Stiles of the state board of health and Secretary of State Fleetwood of Morrisville. The increased interest in the subjects of tuberculosis and pure water and food which has developed during the past year or more is catered to in the presentation of strong papers presented and discussed in the meetings. The health officers have also waded up to their privileges and come prepared to ask leading questions about health topics which bring out valuable suggestions from the various experts, who appear on the programme.

"Contagious Diseases in the School", was the title of another paper read by Dr. J. W. Copeland of Lyndonville and discussed by Drs. Elliot of Barre and Joseph Beiting of Lonsbury. HIS FOREHEAD SPLIT.

PROBABLY MURDER

Body of John Anderson Found at Middletown, Conn. — A Warrant for Henry Bailey.

Middletown, Conn., July 10.—When John Anderson, a farmer, found the dead body of his friend George Goodale, in a room in the latter's house late yesterday, he discovered a murder which probably will baffle the local police for some time. Goodale was a fish dealer and lived alone in a small house in the West Longhill district, and recently sold a house, the sale bringing him in over a thousand dollars. Whether or not his money was stolen is not known, but there is no doubt that he was the victim of a most brutal attack, his assailant using a blunt instrument, which might have been a hammer or the back of an axe.

Goodale was sitting in a chair near a window. His forehead on the right side was split open, the gash being a long one, and there were deep cuts over both of his eyes. The right side of his skull was also split open.

The police said last night that they have learned that Henry Bailey, who has been doing odd jobs around the city for some time, had worked for Goodale on Friday and that late in the day he was seen to drive away from Goodale's place in the direction of Middletown in a team which Goodale used in his business.

The police secured a warrant for Bailey's arrest last night and Chief Inglis went to Durham, where Bailey is reported to have secured work on the farm of Henry Goodale. Little is known of Bailey.

Goodale was 45 years old and leaves a widow and five children. He did not live with his wife.

He remarked to the court that yesterday was his birthday and seemed much concerned as to his predicament. Harding failed to furnish bail.

DISTURBANCES
IN BASE BALLPlattsburg Ordered to Pay
Inter-city $135.10

OR LEAVE THE LEAGUE

It Is Locals' Share in Fourth Game at Plattsburgh—Ottawa Wants to Get Out of Its Own Proposition.

The first seismic disturbance in Northern league baseball occurred yesterday afternoon at the league meeting in Burlington. Two distinct shocks were felt, but no lives were lost, and although the houses of Plattsburgh and Ottawa were shaken, they still stand. The first shock was the league order, on request of the Inter-city management, that Plattsburgh divide the receipts of the July 4th game in Plattsburgh, as was understood. The next upheaval of the baseball crust was from Canada, when Ottawa tried to get out of the agreement by which it was admitted to the league—because of the distance Ottawa should pay the expenses of the visiting teams to Ottawa.

As a result of the discussion, Plattsburgh was notified to turn over to the Inter-city management at once the $135.10 due as its share of the Fourth of July game; in case of failure Plattsburgh will be ineligible to play further scheduled games. Ottawa's petition was left over to the next meeting of the league, by which time the vice presidents shall have been instructed as to their course of action.

In defense of the Inter-city request, Director Donnelly stated that last season Plattsburgh got half the receipts of the Fourth of July game here—$392—and that the New Yorkers dropped out of the league before the labor day games in Plattsburgh, at which they were to divide. The result was that the Inter-city came out "in the hole" last fall, whereas if the original plan had been carried out they would have been ahead. On Ottawa's petition a tentative proposition was advanced that the expense of the league visiting Ottawa be shared equally, but this was left over to the next meeting of the league.

A BRISK CONTEST IS EXPECTED TONIGHT.

Local Candidates for Senator File Their Lists of Delegates; Also State's Attorney Aspirant.

The Republican caucus to be held in the city hall this evening to elect nineteen delegates to the Republican county convention at Montpelier on July 17 promises to develop some close brushes among Barre candidates. That which is drawing out the greatest interest is the contest between Frank G. Howland and John W. Dillon for senator. It being conceded in the county that this city is entitled to one of the senators this term, Barre's choice will probably be the choice of the county for a candidate.

The Howland list of delegates, as filed with the Republican city committee is as follows: Dr. G. H. Reed, James Mackay, P. F. McCarthy, E. J. Sowden, J. Ward Carver, C. S. Wallace, R. Albisetti, Jesse Cayhew, L. L. Robbins, George Troup, Donald W. Smith, E. R. Davis, William Jack, F. H. Burke, J. Frank Perry, H. K. Bush, Burt H. Wells, John Robins and H. William Scott.

The Dillon delegates are as follows: R. A. Hoar, James Imhah, L. H. Thurston, W. L. Stowe, Alex. E. Bruce, Douglas M. Barclay, Alex. Jones, James Wilson, Jr., H. A. Holt, John Marr, A. F. Dodge, W. E. Beck, James F. Harrison, F. D. Laird, W. E. Sutherland, H. C. Whitaker, W. F. Shepard, Frank F. Cave and N. D. Phelps.

There is a fight on in the county for the state's attorney nomination. M. M. Gordon seeks the support of the Barre delegates tonight with the following list of delegates: James Mackay, J. Ward Carver, E. E. Perry, F. B. Cate, John Maiden, W. E. Sutherland, Frank W. Harris, George W. Bassett, Jesse Cayhew, Frank W. Jackson, E. W. Bisbee, Walter Morgan, H. D. Camp, L. B. Dodge, C. C. Moore, W. J. McLean, Michael Gowan, E. C. Gowan, Fred D. J. Morse. Recently some work had been put in among Barre Republicans for two Montpelier candidates, Benjamin Gates and F. B. Thomas.

For the other two senatorships several towns will present their claims. Among them are Waterbury for Eugene Moody, Woodbury for F. E. Drennan, North Montpelier for William G. Nye, Worcester for H. W. Vail, Calais for W. E. Bliss and Northfield for Dr. J. K. Winch. For the position of state judge, made vacant by the withdrawal of Judge Huntley, M. Winch of Barre town is a candidate and will get good support. Sheriff Tracy will be renominated and Hiram Carleton, judge of probate, also.

The progress of the illness was marked by fits of improvement and then failure, until the last few days when death seemed inevitable.
